Joseph F. Molloy, ILR 1982, VP, Managed Care Benefits/Direct Contracting, did an amazing presentation to approximately 25 people at our Fall Long Island ILRAA breakfast on September 28, 2012, entitled, “The Value of Integrated Solutions”.

We thank Joe and hope he’ll update us at a future presentation. We thank Roger Kaplan, Stacey Bastone, and Maria Sekas-Krum. Jackson Lewis Melville generously providing breakfast and a terrific meeting facility at no charge to ILRAA and we are grateful for their support. A Spring program is being planned for late March 2013.

Here are details on the presentation:
Leveraging its position as the largest medical provider in the NY Metro area and the largest employer on Long Island, NSLIJHS embarked on a multi-year’s benefits strategy to change its culture to be more positive and Wellness oriented, to hold employees and their dependents more accountable for their own Health, to remove barriers by providing incentives and programs towards better health, and to drive messaging about partnering for the future. This partnership is changing the way health care is delivered, moving from an environment that is sickness-based to a holistic, health-based approach.

Joe focused on how these issues were identified, prioritized and addressed in building the benefits program focused on evidence-based medicine, outcomes, and our mission as a provider of care. Specifically,

- Employee health management is maximized when addressed across the entire health care continuum, utilizing a holistic approach
- Wellness and incentive programs
- Addressing gaps in care
- Pharmacy programs
- Integration of Independent Practice Associations and the move towards Accountable Care Solutions
- Involvement of members from the entire NSLIJ matrix in health care decisions
- Outcomes can be applied to the broader community

Respectfully submitted,

Maria Sekas-Krum and Roger Kaplan
